

In what ways does Culture shape how I see the world?

How i understand interactions and what i value or how i make decisons

being grateful

Generational vision

Being humble.

Connection

How I celebrate life

connection to the earth

Ancestral foods/patience

My spirituality

In what ways does Culture shape how I see the world?

In everyway, through engagement and observation

Culture shapes the way I think and connect to others

How I interact with others

How I view myself and others

Understanding Diversity

Connection to ancestors powers my work

Allows me to be sensitive others in the conversation

Keeps me grounded and helps the direction of my life

What is humorous, what my role is within my community, etc.

In what ways does Culture shape how I see the world?

Connecting with others

How I interpret life and its cycle through passages.

How I interact with other people (sense of humor)

How I see myself moving in my environment and others moving with me

It connects me and who I am to the world centers me as a spiritual person

It's my spiritual foundation and design for living.

How I interact with others, choose my friends, and value things.

shows me who I am and where I belong

In what ways does Culture shape how I see the world?

connection to my surroundings

How I view what's important in life

It broadens my perspective, builds compassion, and is humbling.

Culture helps dictate the way i live my life ans how i interact with others

Connects me to the land which grounds me

Bolsters my sense of belonging and self Culture helps me see how connected individuals are even when they don't feel they are. This allows be to engage with others as I would want to be engaged.

Allows the opportunity for me to constantly learn

Our unique tribal area and how we have lived and what traditions we carry such as language and basically ways of life

In what ways does Culture shape how I see the world?

Where I come from and Where I want to go

My values and how I see my purpose in this life.

Makes me see all of the beauty that exists in the world.

Culture also shapes how the world sees and understands me

Being connected

How I connect with the world and identity

Allows me to see the beauty in the World with a different lens

HumbleRespectFamily connectionTribal connectionSpiritual connection

HumbleRespect Family, tribal and spiritual connections

How can I incorporate Culture into my Youth Programming?

Smudge box/kit

Bring a story, poem, food or quote to share

Storytelling

Traditional games

Involve the elders and youth ;digital story telling..

Making value discussions an ongoing talking point

Working with Elders, sharing/teaching values, include traditional foods, and storytelling or making regalia or dances

Digital Story telling

pen pal to elders with our elder's program

How can I incorporate Culture into my Youth Programming?

using stories, poems, books, a lot of story telling and bringing it back to our youth and those who are lost or confused being out in Nature

Virtual Cultural Sharing Nights, book groups including indigenous authors, sending out language books for young families, virtual drum groups, Minecraft - create plank houses in game.

cooking is always appreciated

with values and ground rules, allow everyone to share specific culutruat teachings - talk to their elders

Birch basket kits that will require some mentorship time with an Elder. Storytelling hour describing values of one's tribe

Using sacred colors; beadings. pow wows

Start sending a newsletter to youth each month and include native culture in there; such as traditional foods they can eat, native events going on virtually or in community, attach links/reading materials over Native culture. Also make videos.

Word of the day in Native language.

How can I incorporate Culture into my Youth Programming?

Teaching language or songs -- a word a day or a song a week/month -- good to tie in with a adolescent health lesson or use traditional stories for holistic health for teaching.