1) How are youth showing up at home?

Youth are showing up hungry for positive influence

youth inspiring adults with their messaging

It's exciting to see Youth Councils meeting on social media...

Helping me cook & clean. Using TikTok to organize. ISI

Wanting to stay connected to family and friends

Using tiktok to make food :)

Finding creative ways to use social media to give Indigenous people much needed representation!

Creating and sharing poems on SM

My grandson helps with heavy lifting and other chores. He comes home from school very hungry because school lunches are lousy! He always tells me he loves me all day.

We meet on Zoom every other Sunday at 4 consistently so they know we are there for them and for an incentive we deliver a snack bag

Usually they would come home starving and wanting to eat right away! LOL

Joining family in sweats

Sharing about issues in the community and wanting to see and to make change!

I am now on TikTok and looking forward to new inspirations to share!

Elder Story telling

Defining independent and sustainable thinking.

Art and online contests

Youth are showing up Learning from social media (as much as some may be opposed). All the more reason for the need for positive and educational content.

Youth at a local school in my area had a protest/walk-out last Friday because the school did not respond to a situation like they wanted.

sharing their culture in fun ways

When and where they can

2) What can you take from today's convo back home?

The Youth Leadership activity looks great!

This makes me more curious about what my grandson is doing online even though I keep checking his online activities. So, I think another sit down dialogue with him is always in order.

Great resources for many communities and identities

2) lessons about how to use tik tok and other platforms to reach youth audiences

Great resources and a better understanding of social media

Using the practice of intent in creating content for youth

Asking the kiddos about who they are following on Tik Tok

Eventually sign up for TikTok.

Need to learn what youth are interested in. learn TikTok & keep up with new online platforms.

We can help youth be more engaged in the community or advocate for their needs by using the resources/tools (like social media) that they already use regularly.

Looking for additional partnerships

I've learned a bit more about TikTok and creative ways that folks can use as a communication medium.

We can use the online resources and refer them to go view WeRNative

The groundwork to have a more intentional social media page
